NACVA Recertification Update—Second Quarter 2014

NACVA Recertification Requirements Now More Convenient and Flexible

by Rebecca Davies, Recertification Manager

For those members who need to recertify by December 31, 2014, the NACVA Recertification requirements have been updated and improved. I am very pleased to be the “go-to” person here at NACVA HQ to help you breeze through the process.

I'd like to introduce myself. My name is Rebecca Davies and I am the new Recertification Manager here at NACVA. It's very likely that we have already had a conversation, since I have been the morning receptionist for over 10 years. I look forward to speaking with you again in my new position.

The changes that we have made to our Recertification program have made it much more simple, convenient, and flexible than ever. We now require each member who holds the Certified Valuation Analyst® (CVA®), the Accredited in Business Appraisal Review™ (ABAR™), or the Master Analyst in Financial Forensics™ (MAFF™) credential to report 60 continuing professional education (CPE) hours/60 points every three years. Whether you prefer to use 60 hours of CPE from any organization supporting business valuation, fraud, litigation, etc. or take advantage of our recommended programs which would offset some of those hours, the choice is now yours.

NACVA currently offers five programs it considers helpful and beneficial to all valuers. When you participate in any of these recommended programs, you will receive bonus points that will offset the hours that you will need to meet your required 60 points. Taking our recommended programs will also offset the recertification fee, in part or in full. None of these programs are required, only recommended, for recertification. For more in-depth information about the new recertification program, click here to view the NACVA Recertification Reporting Form and Supplement, or you can contact me directly at RebeccaD1@NACVA.com or (800) 677-2009 ext. 233.
